

Future Homeowner Vanesia Brown

Habitat for Humanity Williamson-Maury is pleased to welcome the Brown family to its homeownership program.

"I love everything about family and home," says Vanesia Brown, a native of the Columbia, TN area. "My family loves to get together, laugh, and enjoy one another's company."

Because her joy is found at home, acceptance into the Habitat homeownership program is very special for Vanesia. "The best memories of my life were made in the homes of my mother and grandmother." Sadly, Ms. Brown's grandmother and mother both passed away on the same day a few years ago. This tragedy has elevated the importance of enjoying life with loved ones. "I want to continue the tradition of making my home a place where those same wonderful memories will be made for my children and extended family."

Ms. Brown has two children, Jazarious, 18 years old, and Aaliyah, aged 8. They both love football and her son Jazarious is interested in pursuing modeling. "He has many talents, along with being an excellent athlete. Aaliyah loves anything girly."

Vanesia works for Ryder in Columbia and dreams of supporting her family through her own business in the future. "I have a small "bedazzle" business. I can bedazzle almost anything! I also love the idea of remodeling houses."

The Browns are very grateful to Habitat for Humanity and their home build sponsors for this opportunity. "I know we will find great joy and security through this process. I am a native of Columbia and I know pretty much everyone here. I want my sponsors to know how much I appreciate their help in making my dream of a place to call home come true."

Construction on the Brown's home, funded through the efforts of the Habitat for Humanity Women Build, will begin April 14, 2018. The home dedication ceremony is planned for June 21st at 4 p.m.
